Looking for real-world experience?

For the last 20 years, Johnson Engineering has played a large part in helping FGCU grow into the University it is today. We pride ourselves in hiring FGCU graduates who bring fresh new ideas and experiences to our well-established civil engineering firm. Our long standing history with the University started in August of 1997. Our team has been involved with planning and development, surveying, water resources, and landscape architecture and continues to lead the University’s environmental consulting and civil engineering needs. To support FGCU students majoring in civil or environmental engineering, we established the Johnson Engineering Scholarship Endowed Fund. The lobby of the U.A. Whitaker College of Engineering in Holmes Hall bears our company name. Many FGCU students have interned at our firm during their summer breaks and have been hired once they graduate. Please visit johnsonengineering.com to see a list of current career opportunities.
