

Remote Teaching and Academic Advising through Synchronous Communication Technologies at FGCU

Opportunity

- FGCU Lucas Center for Faculty Development is sponsoring scholarly activities for a group of people who are interested in exploring synchronous communication technologies (e.g. Google Meets, MS. Teams, Skype, and Zoom) for remote teaching and academic advising.
- Anyone at FGCU can join this group. If you are interested in it, please provide your communication information in the survey before Sept. 25, 2020 and thank you very much! (https://fgcucoe.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_e2nS99icaEij8wd.)
- Dr. Charles Xiaoxue Wang, a Professor of Educational Technology and Lucas Center Faculty Fellow (2020-2021), will facilitate the group activities. Dr. Wang is experienced with using synchronous communication technologies for learning and instruction. Additional information can be found at <https://drive.google.com/file/d/1vGAgiy07RxPQhYHh7hw9IdM1DIRyTd4U/view?usp=sharing>

If you have any questions about this opportunity, please contact Dr. Charles Xiaoxue Wang at xxwang@fgcu.edu and Thank you very much!

